Women's clinic files suit against protest activities

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

A hearing will be held Wednesday, Aug. 15 at 9:30 a.m. in Chancery Court in Gulfport on a request New Woman Medical Center has filed in Hancock County Chancery Court for an injunction against certain persons who are allegedly conspiring to destroy its business.

Plaintiff in the suit filed Wednesday is Beacon Light Clinic, an Alabama corporation doing business in Bay St. Louis as New Woman Medical Center.

The clinic, which opened in mid-July, provides various health care services to women, including therapeutic abortions.

Even before it opened, a group of citizens attended a Bay St. Louis City Council meeting on May 8 to present a petition protesting the clinic.

Citizens also published full-page protests in the newspaper, conducted a pro-life rally on June 19 at Bay High School's Tiger Stadium, conducted a memorial service in front of the center on July 28 and have continuously picketed the facility on U.S. 90.

Defendants in the suit include the Rev. Nathan L. Barber of First Baptist Church, Bay St. Louis; the Rev. Charles E. Clark of First Assembly of God, Waveland; the Rev. Ernest Culley of Word of Faith Church, Bay St. Louis; the Rev. Charles Ward of Church of God, Bay St. Louis; the Rev. Henry McInerney of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church, Bay St. Louis; and Bob Hubbard, Waveland alderman and grand knight of the local Knights of Columbus.

The complaint also names as defendants "any and all persons who are engaging in activities complained of or who are acting in concert with or under the inducement or persuasion of the named defendants in furtherance of an unlawful conspiracy to breach the peace, harass, intimidate and interfere with the civil and property rights of the plaintiff, its employees and other citizens."

The complaint alleges that although the defendants have not formed a formal organization, they do communicate on a regular basis with each other.

According to the complaint, "schedules" are made out wherein a "profile picketer" will picket the center at certain hours or shifts.

Patients and prospective patients, the complaint charges, have been coerced and subjected to fear of physical injury, emotional distress, threats, intimidation, coercion and apprehension of damage and public ridicule.

On July 28, the complaint alleges, a mob outside the center of 75 people or more had an adverse effect on traffic on US-90, created a public nuisance, were loud, obnoxious and disruptive and conducted a "memorial service" with caskets and a cross in view of patients and prospective patients.

On July 30 picketers placed a garbage can marked "don't deposit babies here" outside the center.

On July 31 about ten students from St. Clare Catholic School sang and prayed outside the center.

On each day since then, the complaint states, defendants or their agents and constituents have held "social gatherings" on city property directly in front of the center or on the median of US-90, with "umbrellas, chairs and ice chests."

According to the complaint, some individuals come from areas within a 75-mile radius of Bay St. Louis to picket.

The complaint asks for a preliminary injunction to:

—Prohibit mass picketing or congregating within 200 yards of the clinic;
—Restrict pickets to two at one time, require them to be in motion at all times, spaced not less than ten feet apart in a single line on the easement in front of the center and not to block or interfere with use of the parking lot;

—Prohibit blocking or obstructing public roads or private parking lots;
—Prohibit defacing, vandalizing or interfering with the front door of the clinic or any motor vehicles at the clinic;

—Prohibit threatening, cursing, coercing, intimidating, insulting, shouting at, doing bodily harm or threatening to do bodily harm, or otherwise interfering with, hindering, harassing or injuring persons at the clinic;

—Prohibit placing of vehicles, barriers or any other obstructions within 200 yards of the clinic entrance;

—Prohibit the conducting of any picketing in a coercive, intimidating or threatening manner and specifically having pickets, or any persons acting in concert with pickets, from yelling, screaming, singing or otherwise intimidating persons doing business with the clinic; and

—Limit "defendants' literature which incite a breach of the peace and...limit...defendants from bringing any caskets, crosses, umbrellas, chairs or ice chests" within 200 yards of the clinic entrance.

The complaint also asks that, following a final hearing, a permanent injunction be issued and damages be assessed against the defendants for their interference with the center's business.

The order setting the Aug. 15 hearing in Gulfport was signed by Chancellor Jason Floyd.

Other chancery court cases had already been set for Aug. 15 in Hancock County Courthouse's only courtroom.

Also Aug. 15, the supervisors will be meeting in the courthouse's boardroom to adopt the county's 1984-85 budget.

Service is goal of regional AG office

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Officials from throughout the Gulf Coast gathered Thursday in Biloxi to meet Attorney General Edwin L. Pittman and division heads and staff from his office in Jackson.

A 4 p.m. reception was held at the Broadwater Beach Hotel to give county and city officials, the news media and other interested citizens an opportunity to meet attorneys from Pittman's office, some of whom will be spending time in Biloxi running the attorney general's regional office which opened Monday.

"We didn't come to the Coast because it's a problem," Pittman said.

"We came to serve you."

Pittman said a major factor in the decision to open the Gulf Coast regional office was a perceived need for closer communication with local public officials.

In addition, staff expertise will be available to assist citizens with questions or legal problems.

Pat Flynn, special assistant attorney general in the criminal division who also serves as media coordinator for the office, said the program is an experimental one.

"After six months the program will be reviewed to see where the needs are," she said.

For now, attorneys from various divisions of Pittman's office will be assigned on a rotating basis to spend one week at the regional office on the second floor of the Harrison County Courthouse.

At least one attorney will be on duty there each week, Flynn said, with others brought in from time to time based on need.

If the program merits it, eventually an attorney may be transferred from Jackson to the Gulf Coast full-time, or an attorney may be hired for the Biloxi office.

Michael Espy, assistant attorney general in the consumer protection division, has been in Biloxi since Monday.

The regional office, he said, received at least 50 calls and 10 visitors during its first four days of operation.

Of those, he said, about 50 were consumer complaints.

Pittman's staff predict consumer protection will continue to be a major topic of inquiries to the Biloxi office.

The consumer protection division of Pittman's office investigates complaints of unlawful trade practice.

The attorneys cannot represent individual citizens in court actions, but they will mediate claims and, wherever possible, recover money by negotiation between the parties.

The division can go to court on behalf of a group of consumers if an investigation reveals many people have been victimized in similar illegal transactions.

The Medicaid fraud control unit investigates claims of fraud by providers of Medicaid service, such as services which are charged for but not provided, medication that is overpriced or substituted, and patient abuse by nursing homes.

The public interest advocacy division serves as an advocate for the state and the general public in state and federal administrative and court proceedings.

At present, the division is divided into utility rate and environmental advocacy divisions.

The organized crime investigative division investigates organized crime activities and provides a central source of information for law enforcement personnel.

It also acts as liaison between various state and federal agencies.

Other divisions of the attorney general's office include civil litigation, opinion processing, governmental affairs and criminal litigation.

The attorney general, as chief legal officer and advisor for the state, serves as lawyer for the state and Mississippi's public officials and governmental agencies.

He also issues legal opinions which interpret existing state law.

Not only does the attorney general have sole power under state law to bring or defend a lawsuit on behalf of the state, he is also empowered to act as counsel to state agencies and to defend them or bring suit on their behalf.

Error in Bay zoning map results in $206,651 suit

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Thwarted attempts in March to change zoning in Bay St. Louis to allow construction of an apartment complex on Washington Street have resulted in the filing of a $206,651 lawsuit against the city.

Other defendants in the lawsuit filed this week in Hancock County Circuit Court are Bay Mayor Larry Bennett, Dantagnan Realty and Coldwell Banker Realty Company.

Plaintiffs Washington Manor, Ltd. and E. Key Ramsey allege that in September, 1983 a zoning map on display at City Hall in Bay St. Louis showed, and Bennett affirmed in a letter dated Sept. 29, that the subject property was properly zoned for apartment construction.

The other defendants, the complaint states, also represented that the property was zoned as C-3 (commercial).

The complaint alleges plaintiffs incurred losses as a result of expenditures made in preparation for the apartment construction, based on their reliance on assurances that the property was zoned for commercial purposes when it was actually zoned R-1 (single family residential).

family residential).

The complaint further charges that plaintiffs had an option to buy the property in question and that they have been damaged in that their option time has run out.

In addition to damages, court costs and interests, the plaintiffs have asked that a preliminary injunction be issued preventing sale of the property.

After the error in the zoning map was discovered, the Planning and Zoning Commission was asked to rezone the property belonging to the estate of Elsie B. Chapin at the corner of Washington and Seabe Streets so that a 48-unit apartment complex could be constructed.

A number of area residents protested the rezoning, saying the complex would be detrimental to their neighborhood, and although the commission recommended the change the city council denied the request.

Pass schools to pilot new discipline program

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Parents of Pass Christian Middle and High School students Thursday will preview highlights of a new program designed to take the "guesswork" out of discipline problems for both students and teachers.

Administrators will present elements of their new Progressive Discipline Program and answer questions at an open meeting of parents at 7 p.m. in the high school library.

Middle School Principal Mike Bonney said this fall the 470 students in the middle school and the 430 students in the high school will know exactly what to expect when they are guilty of behavioral violations.

And the "when" and "how" to punish infractions will no longer be within the teacher's discretion.

The rationale behind the Progressive Discipline Program, approved by the school board on a one-year pilot basis, is that teachers have the right to teach without distraction and students have the right to learn without disruption.

If the program works Bonney and High School Principal Adrian Swanier say they expect it to be made a permanent part of the school program.

The program is not planned for elementary students, the men explained, because elementary teachers have fewer discipline problems to deal with.

"Elementary students are in self-contained classrooms," Bonney noted.

"Beginning at the middle school level, students move from class to class and have more time on their own."

"They have more opportunities to get into minor trouble."

The program is not designed for severe behavioral problems, Bonney emphasized—it is geared to minor nuisances that interfere with what goes on in the classroom.

The PDP (Progressive Discipline Program) provides a list of both desirable and undesirable behaviors and a list of the consequences for students who misbehave.

The program includes positive motivation to reinforce positive behavior.

For now, the principals said, that positive motivation will be verbal praise, pats on the back, notes on papers.

Later, they hope to be able to include such rewards as special privileges, prizes or certificates from area merchants.

A committee of teachers and students hopes to work with parents and PTA groups to implement the reward program by the end of the year, Bonney said.

The PDP program is divided into levels of behavior violations.

Level I at the middle school, for instance, includes such infractions as tardiness, failure to bring materials to class, losing materials, chewing gum or eating candy, horseplay, or inappropriate behavior on a school bus.

Level II includes pushing or shoving, defacing school property and disrespectful behavior toward adult staff.

Louisiana man dies in car-truck crash

By DENA BISNETTE

A Louisiana man died early Saturday on Highway 43 in a car-truck collision about a mile and a half south of the Hancock-Pearl River county line, according to a Mississippi Highway Patrol report.

Hancock County Coroner Harold Stiglet said Raul F. Lujardo, 23, of Folsom, La., was pronounced dead at the accident scene at about 1:50 a.m.

The highway patrol reported that Lujardo was driving south in a 1976 Plymouth that collided with a northbound 18-wheel truck driven by James R. Pittman of Hattiesburg. Pittman and a passenger, Ephraim Navareze, were both injured and were taken to Crosby Memorial Hospital in Picayune.

A hospital spokesman said Pittman was transferred to Forrest General Hospital in Hattiesburg for treatment of a broken knee, while Navareze was treated for broken ribs at Crosby Memorial and released.

The highway patrol was still investigating the cause of the accident Saturday afternoon.

Fighting without weapons, misdemeanor stealing or possession of tobacco, drugs or alcohol on campus are Level II infractions.

Threatening a teacher comes under Level IV, possessing a weapon or using alcohol, tobacco or drugs come under Level V and assaulting a teacher, using a weapon and selling drugs or alcohol come under Level VI.

Each level of misbehavior carries with it specific consequences such as lunch detention, probation and parent conferences.

For Level IV, corporal punishment is included.

For Level V violations, students may be suspended from school for a semester.

And for Level VI, a student may be suspended from school pending a hearing for possible expulsion.

Recurrence of inappropriate behavior during a probationary period will cause an increase in the level of consequences for that behavior.

And probation violations at one level would result in movement to the next level.

Students who successfully complete the consequences and probation without further offenses revert back to a new beginning point at ground level.

At the high school, the program is similar but modified for older students.

"The program builds consistency into the discipline program," Swanner said.

And at both schools, he said, students are referred for counseling when infractions occur.

"The last thing we want is for kids to be put out of school," Bonney said.

"We hope to create a structure to do everything we can to avoid that and modify behavior."

"Our whole emphasis is on getting maximum use of classroom time for the instructional process so we can improve student achievement."

Teachers in both schools are being trained in the new system, and students will be attending assemblies this fall to discuss the program.

All students will also receive copies of the lists of violations and consequences.

New students who enroll during the school year will receive the lists and will also have an orientation session with school counselors about the program.

Correction

The story in Thursday's Sea Coast Echo about Glen Bennett, who suffered burns in an accident Aug. 4, reported incorrectly that Bennett was taken to a Gulfport hospital before being transferred to a Shriner's Burn Unit in Galveston, Texas.

Bennett was actually taken to Hancock General Hospital, then transported by Mobile Medic to Gulfport Airport for transportation to Galveston by private plane, according to Hancock General Public Relations Director Mary Perkins.

Proposed county budget to be reviewed Aug. 15

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors will conduct a public hearing at 10 a.m. Wednesday on its proposed budget.

The proposed operating budget of some $5.5 million represents an increase of about 10 percent, with the increased funding to come from increased tax revenues due to property reappraisal.

The budget proposal allocates 72 percent of the anticipated $408,396 in federal revenue sharing funds to the supervisors' road and bridge funds, with the remainder going to the general county funds.

The total proposed budget for general county funds, which includes Emergency Medical Service, Soil and Water Conservation District, Pauper Fund, Port and Harbor Commission, Library Fund, Hospital Maintenance Fund, Mosquito Control, Veterans Service, Youth Court, Chamber of Commerce, Planning and Park Fund, is $3,805,262.

The supervisors' funds include $339,460 for District 1, $415,054 for District 2, $273,143 for District 3, $349,012 for District 4 and $274,384 for District 5.

The differences in these funds are due to carry-over funds in a total amount of $462,986.

The proposed budget also includes the following allocations: Reappraisal, $246,633; Assessor/Tax Collector, $185,023; Civil Defense, $50,900; Coast Mental Health and Retardation Center, $88,000; Youth Court, $51,036; Emergency Medical Service, $60,000; Soil and Water Conservation District, $18,000; Gulf Regional Planning Commission, $37,700; Chamber of Commerce, $20,000; Southern Mississippi Planning and Development District, $92,743; County Prosecutor, $24,000; Public Defender, $24,000; Circuit Clerk and Court, $86,692; and Sheriff's Department, $445,041.

The proposed budget does not include expenses of the chancery clerk, which was paid from fees collected.

The supervisors are expected to adopt, amend or reject the budget following the public hearing.

The budget is available for prior public review in the chancery clerk's office at the courthouse.

Millage will be assessed in September after the tax rolls have been approved.

Library branches to close for three-day inventory

All three branches of the Hancock County Library System will be closed to the public on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday for inventory, according to Prima Wusnack, library director.

In addition, the Kiln branch will remain closed Friday.

Staff members will be inventorying sections of the 50,000 item collection as well as transferring materials between libraries and "weeding" outdated print and non-print information source.

Persons needing to return materials should use the outside book return at either the Waveland or Bay St. Louis branches.

The Drivers' License Bureau of the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol will not be affected by the closing, notes Wusnack.

The Hancock County Bureau will be open Tuesday from 7:30 a.m. until 5:20 p.m. to provide drivers' license services in the meeting room of the Bay St. Louis branch of the library system.

Safety commissioner discusses MASEP

"Mandatory classes for persons convicted of DUI is a worthwhile attempt to educate drinking drivers about the seriousness of the offense," Commissioner of Public Safety James L. Roberts Jr. said recently.

"Attending a Mississippi Alcohol Safety Education Program (MASEP) class is not a cure-all for DUI offenders, but we believe it has a positive effect on many participants," he said.

According to Roberts, nearly 30,000 of the 1.7 million licensed drivers in Mississippi attended one four-week class between 1980 and 1983.

He reported that justice court judges with whom he has talked speak favorably of the program.

"The judges tell me they've been thanked for having enrolled some of the MASEP participants after the offenders completed the 10 hours of instruction."

MASEP is conducted by the Social Science Research Center at Mississippi State University.

"Mississippi State has established 38 schools in 28 cities. The classes are scheduled so attendance by just about anybody is possible."

"Thirty-four schools hold evening classes on Monday through Thursday at various locations throughout the state. Four schools meet on Saturday mornings," the commissioner said.

Mandatory attendance, required by law for first-time DUI offenders since 1981, is in addition to a fine of between $200 and $500, imprisonment for up to 24 hours or both.

The convicted person's driver license is suspended for 90 days to one year.

MASEP classes discuss the meaning and measurement of blood alcohol concentration (BAC), the Implied Consent Law, how alcohol and other drugs impair driving skills, the nature of problem drinking, the characteristics of ethyl alcohol and its effects on the body, and places to receive help for a drinking problem.

"I hope someone you love is not ordered to attend a MASEP class but if that happens, maybe attending the school will keep the person from becoming a multiple DUI offender," Robert said.

"The Department of Public Safety suspended nearly 32,000 licenses during fiscal year 1983, so you can see we don't need any extra business."

Shrine announces 29th annual circus

Joppa Shrine Temple will present its 29th annual Shrine Circus at the Coast Coliseum Aug. 18 and 19 with two performances each day at 2 and 8 p.m.

"Circus Europa" featuring a cast of international stars will be playing the first time on the Mississippi Coast displaying aerial skills, pretty girls, clowns, wild beasts and slap-stick comedy.

One of the top attractions will be the Delilah Wallenda Duo. Delilah is the granddaughter of the late Karl Wallenda, who thrilled audiences on the Coast with his performances on the high wire.

Each of the international performers represent countries like America, Italy, Germany, Sweden, Czechoslovakia, and the show includes "The Jet Star Warrior" who blasts off to the World of the Unknown.

Potentate James M. Carter of Joppa Temple urges parents or guardians of children who are crippled, burned or spinal cord injury victims to contact the temple (896-3385) if a youngster needs treatment. "We have the finest hospitals in the world where top specialists and the latest methods of treatment and care are assured," he said, "and best of all, it's free."

Bay council discusses housing rehab project

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT
The three members present at Thursday's Bay St. Louis City Council meeting gave approval to Ron Murray Consultants Inc. to review an additional 20 homes for possible rehabilitation.

But they questioned Herman Briggs, who works for Murray's community development firm, at some length about procedures used to ensure that applicants are eligible for the community development block grant program funded through the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Briggs told councilmen Sheldon Seuzeneau, Wilmer Seymour and James Thriffley his firm wanted to take bids on additional homes so that all 1983 program funds will be obligated when the grant application is submitted for 1984 funds.

He explained that lists submitted for review contain name of persons who have applied for housing rehabilitation and who appear to be eligible in terms of meeting the income limitations.

The firm's secretary, Briggs said, checks the income level of applicants. The next step is to inspect the home itself.

"The people may qualify under the guidelines," he said, "but if the houses are standard the houses don't qualify."

"I'd hate to see money spent on houses ten years old or less," Thriffley said.

"If they're falling down at that age, that's neglect."

Murray's firm hopes to take bids on ten more homes in late August, and on another ten homes in September as funds become available, Briggs said.

The council gave its approval to a review of homes belonging to James

Page, Ollie Lewis, Doris Wilkerson, Robert Whavers, Howard Thornton, Charles Poolson, Eugene Livandais, Paula Bibrey, Zedie Bermond and Jennie LaRosa;

Also Lucille Bourgeois, Pamela Jones, Joseph Noto, Catherine Steele, Leroy Reed, Edward Bell, Randolph Carver, Alvina Nichols, Lynette Beach and Shelton Bermond.

Also Thursday, the council accepted contractor's bids for the following homes already approved for rehabilitation:

—Madden Construction—James Lang, $5,320; Curtis Celestin, $7,815; Jack Norwood, $8,240; Thomas Page, $5,915;

—S & S Construction—Thelma Smith, $6,570; Mabel Patterson, $7,925;

—Bermond Construction—Lela Curry, $4,340; Larry Pavolini, $6,920; and

—S.L. Smith & Co.—Daisy Bell, $6,640; Edward Palloade, $7,621.

The council also accepted Pest Control Services Inc.'s $1,525 bid, Hatcher Insulation's $2,168 bid and Mel's Electrical and Refrigeration bid of $8,601 in connection with rehabilitation of the above homes.

In another matter the council approved payment of $21,684 to Necaise Construction Co. for the city's street paving project.

City Clerk Edward Favre said the Necaise invoice had inadvertently not been included when the last claims docket was approved.

Favre said this payment, along with a prior payment of $41,000, would bring payments with Necaise up to date for work completed.

Seymour and Seuzeneau voted to approve payment; Thriffley voted no.

TEACHERS' WORKSHOP

A workshop for Gulf Coast elementary and secondary teachers on techniques of teaching bilingual students will be conducted Monday, Aug. 13, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the municipal auditorium at Pass Christian.

Jack Lynch, public information officer for the Mississippi State Department of Education, which is sponsoring the workshop, says the meeting is planned specifically to help teachers who have Vietnamese students in their classes.

CREDIT TELECOURSES

The University of Mississippi will offer two college credit telecourses this fall. The courses, which will be aired on both the University's Channel 12 and Mississippi Educational Television, are CSCI 241, "The New Literacy: An Introduction to Computers" and PSY 204, "Understanding Human Behavior."

Both begin Saturday, Aug. 25, and offer three credit hours to those officially registering for either course. "The New Literacy" provides a complete overview of the computer and surveys electronic data processing, hardware and software systems in 26 half-hour programs.

Cost for each course is $92 for three credit hours, and texts and materials may be purchased from the Ole Miss Bookstore.

Persons interested in obtaining further information about telecourse learning may contact Independent Study, the Division of Continuing Education, University, MS 38677; telephone (601) 232-7282.

IN CONGRESS

By Cong. Trent Lott

1983: Not A Good Year For Savings
Last year was not a very good year for savings in America. Private savings by individual Americans amounted to 4.8 percent of personal income, a rate as low as that achieved in 1949.

In comparison, private savings in Japan in 1980 were 19.4 percent of personal income, more than three times the American proportion. Economists tell us that this high rate of savings has led to increased capital formation in Japan. That single factor is responsible for Japan's rapid introduction of new technology and faster rate of economic growth.

It is vital, therefore, that the Congress enact policies to continue to encourage savings rather than consumption.

With this in mind, I have joined in introducing a simple piece of legislation offering incentives for savers and intended to provide American banks, savings and loan institutions and credit unions with stable low-cost funds and a return to traditional fixed rate long-term financing.

The American Passbook Savings Act offers Americans the opportunity to earn substantial amounts of tax-free interest by simply investing in passbook savings, defined as savings accounts yielding no more than six percent annually. The tax-free interest could amount to a maximum of $5,000 on a single return and $10,000 on a joint return.

I am convinced that this measure would help bring interest rates down by encouraging Americans to put those savings in low-cost passbook accounts, encouraging more Americans to save.

As an added important benefit, the Passbook Savings Act would contribute to tax equity in our federal code by giving salaried Americans a chance to do what businessmen can now do—annually shelter some tax-free income.

Preliminary figures obtained from the Department of Treasury indicate that flowbacks to Treasury as a result of lower interest rates and savings on federal debt financing would easily cover the bill's cost and likely earn dividends for the federal government.

It's easy to see how a doubling of last year's pitifully low 4.8 percent savings rate would dramatically diminish the effect of the current federal deficit on credit markets. Expanded private credit means that more credit is available for private investors and less investors are crowded out of the credit market.

Increasing personal savings is a fight we cannot afford to lose as we continue our road to economic recovery. The opportunity belongs to the Congress to restore savings incentives.

MEC

THE PRICE OF LIBERTY

The Mississippi Legislature has met in extended regular session and in special session already this year, but the work goes on.

More and more, legislators are realizing that the problem related to state government cannot be resolved in three or four months of a legislative session, particularly when legislators are swamped with some 2,000 proposals.

More than a half dozen legislative committees are at work this summer, laboring over problems which will be facing the 1985 session.

House and Senate members are struggling with problems related to taxation, cost of government, highways, junior colleges, universities, public health, flooding, and workers compensation. And, there may be others.

This means that citizens interested in state government can no longer depend on contacts during a legislative session for discussing major issues or expressing opinions and ideas.

"Eternal vigilance," we are reminded, "is the price of liberty."

So, in today's world, Mississippians must be eternally vigilant in affairs of state, keeping an eye on the laws and the lawmakers across the calendar. Decisions made by study committees today can influence legislation in January.

Matters of Health

For years I've had sinus headaches behind my eyes going around to my neck. I've tried lots of different sinus medicines but nothing seems to work. Recently I went to a new doctor and he says he thinks my headaches are mostly tension headaches. Do tension headaches hurt behind your eyes?

Actually, most headaches are not purely one type or another but are what we now call 'mixed' headaches. That is, they have some components of tension, migraine or sinus and sometimes all three.

The combination of tension headache and sinus headache is one we see a lot and it usually doesn't respond very well to sinus treatment alone.

I've found that a mild sedative and analgesic (pain killer) combination, when added to standard sinus therapy, often works very well. Your new doctor is probably right on track with his approach to your problem.

I know it's not easy to treat a skin problem without seeing it but I'm getting large numbers of dark scaly patches on my face, arms and hands. I've tried peeling them off and using moisturizing creams but they just come right back. Is there any hope for getting rid of these ugly things?

Dark, scaly patches on sun-exposed areas may well be "Actinic Keratoses" (also called "solar keratoses" because they're caused by sun exposure) and these are considered premalignant because some go on to form serious skin cancers.

For years we had to ignore these because there was no good way of treating them. Now, however, we have a neat, new approach called 'cryosurgery' in which we freeze the spots with controlled applications of liquid nitrogen and they go away completely leaving nice healthy skin and no scarring.

I strongly recommend you visit your family doctor if he does cryosurgery or consult a dermatologist. Skin cancers can become very disfiguring if they're ignored.

I've never been able to quit smoking. What do you think of this new chewing gum with nicotine as an aid to stopping smoking?

Thus far I've had only a few patients who have tried it and it's really too early to summarize their experiences but I am cautiously optimistic about this product which is sold under the brand name "Nicorette."

Research has shown that the smoking urge has several components which include decreased blood nicotine level and a need for oral gratification.

"Nicorette" would seem to be helpful in both of these. A large part of smoking is pure habit, however, and this may be the hardest part to control. My experience has been that the people who successfully quit smoking are those who quit completely rather than trying to taper off gradually.

As a matter of fact, I have never had a patient who successfully tapered down to no cigarettes at all. The low-tar and nicotine cigarettes also don't seem to be too helpful as most people just smoke more to compensate.

I frequently tell my patients that the two most important favors they can do for themselves are to wear seatbelts and quit smoking.

Fair Credit Billing Act provides consumer recourse

By Beverly Riggs
Family Economics and Management Specialist
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Today more people than ever are using credit cards, revolving charge accounts and other kinds of consumer credit. That high use brings on the periodic billing statements for these credit accounts. Trying to get the mistakes corrected can be difficult and frustrating.

In an attempt to help people correct these errors, the Fair Credit Billing Act was enacted.

The stated purpose of the act is "to protect the consumer against inaccurate and unfair billing and credit practices." In order to do this, the act sets up a billing dispute procedure that allows consumers to question what they believe are errors in a periodic statement.

Under the act, the creditor must acknowledge the inquiry and promptly correct any errors or explain why it believes the statement is correct. In addition, the act imposes certain other requirements on the creditor to insure fair and prompt handling of a credit account.

The Fair Credit Billing Act applies only to "open-end" credit plans that cover all consumer credit extended by use of a credit card as well as most other types of revolving credit, including department-store charge accounts and overdraft checking. Installment loans or purchases such as cars and homes, which must be paid according to a set schedule of installments, are not covered by the act.

The act requires prompt correction of billing mistakes. If a consumer wants to preserve rights under the act, here's what to do if a bill is suspected to be wrong or if more information about an item on a bill is needed:

—Do not write on the bill. On a separate sheet of paper write (a consumer can telephone a inquiry but doing so will not preserve rights under this law) the following:

1. Name and account number.
2. A description of the error and an explanation why it is an error. If more information is needed, explain the item in question. Ask for evidence of the charge such as a copy of the charge slip. Do not send in a copy of a sales slip or other document unless a duplicate copy is kept.
3. The dollar amount of the suspected error.

4. Any other information (such as consumer address) that might help the creditor identify the consumer or the reason for the complaint or inquiry.

—Send the billing error notice to the address on the bill that is listed after the words: "Questions Should Be Addressed to." Mail it as soon as possible, but in any case early enough to reach the creditor within 60 days after the bill was mailed.

If a bank is authorized to automatically pay from a checking account or savings account any credit card bills from that bank, stop or reverse payment on any amount suspected to be wrong by mailing a notice so the creditor receives it within 16 days after the bill was sent.

However, the consumer does not have to meet this 16-day deadline to get the creditor to investigate a billing error claim.

The creditor must acknowledge all letters pointing out possible errors within 30 days of receipt, unless the creditor is able to correct a bill during that 30 days.

Within 90 days after receiving a letter, the creditor must either correct the error or explain why the creditor has not further obligation to the consumer even though an error is still claimed, except as provided below.

After the creditor has been notified, neither the creditor nor an attorney or a collection agency may send collection letters or take other collection action with respect to the amount in dispute, but periodic statements may be sent, and the disputed amount can be applied against a credit limit.

A consumer cannot be threatened with damage to a credit rating or sued for the amount in question, nor can the disputed amount be reported to a credit bureau or to other creditors as delinquent until the creditor has answered the inquiry. However, a consumer must pay the parts of a bill not in dispute.

If a creditor has made a mistake on a bill, consumers do not have to pay any finance charges on any disputed amount. If it turns out that the creditor has not made an error, the consumer may have to pay finance charges on the amount in dispute.

Consumers will have to make up any missed minimum or required payments on the disputed amount.

Unless a consumer has agreed that a bill was correct, the creditor must send a written notification of what is owed, and if it is determined that the creditor did make a mistake in billing the disputed amount, a consumer must have normal time to pay undisputed amounts before any more finance charges or late payment charges on the disputed amount can be charged.

If the creditor's explanation does not satisfy and the consumer notifies the creditor is writing within 10 days after a credit explanation is received that the consumer still refuses to pay the disputed amount, the creditor may report to credit bureaus and other creditors and may pursue regular collection procedures.

But, the creditor also must report that the consumer does not think money is owed, and the creditor must let the consumer know to whom such reports were made. Once the matter has been settled between consumer and creditor, the creditor must notify those to whom the creditor reported a delinquency that the matter has been cleared.

Tax protesters' advice can lead to trouble, IRS director says

According to Sylvia Wren, director of the Internal Revenue Service in Mississippi, many individuals have been invited to "tax counseling" meetings or otherwise approached by representatives of tax protest groups.

These "representatives," who often charge a fee for their information, encourage individuals to take advantage of a supposedly "unique law" which gives the average American citizen the same investment tax credit benefits enjoyed by the rich and big business.

They further advise individuals to claim excessive exemptions on the Form W-4 certificate, resulting in no withholding tax.

This is erroneous advice and can result in civil or criminal penalties, Wren said.

Wren said the IRS is authorized by Congress to assess a $500 civil penalty against any person who knowingly lists erroneous information on a W-4 certificate or assists another person in filing a false tax return.

The civil penalty is in addition to possible criminal prosecution which could result in one year's imprisonment and a $1,000 fine upon conviction.

"If a person approaches you with a deal that 'looks too good to be true,' it usually is," Wren noted.

The IRS has several investigations ongoing regarding tax shelter promotions which involve false appraisals of tapes, movies, books and cassettes, she added.

Anyone who has purchased any package of a similar nature should be aware of the possibility of a $500 fine for submission of an incorrect W-4 and also large tax deficiencies, penalties and interest owed once the correctness of the appraisals has been determined.

Employers are required by law to forward to the IRS a Form W-4 which claims total exemption from withholding or an excessive amount of exemptions.

If the IRS determines that a Form W-4 is invalid, the employer is directed to withhold income tax at the rate of one exemption and single-filing status.

Individuals who have filed an erroneous W-4 should contact their payroll office and have it changed immediately, Wren suggested.

Former military sanitation specialist recommends running Bay-Waveland effluent lines into Mississippi Sound

Aug. 10, 1984

Dear Mr. Editor,

Concerning the confusion about where to run the sewage disposal waste-water—I feel I have some knowledge about this.

I served in the United States Service, stationed on a Marine training land base, similar to Bay St. Louis, Waveland and Clermont Harbor area.

My assignment, due to my experience and reference was to the sewage collection, treatment and disposal department.

My rating was Specialist First Class in this department.

Now, my suggestion is, to run a drainage disposal line permanently and far enough out into the Gulf of Mexico, into the east, west cross current flow, into great volumes of water, away from the land area, in order not to continue polluting the Bayous, the River, the Bay and the Beachfront.

Why continue to pollute and spend the taxpayers' money on a temporary project?

Sincerely,
J.A. Breland

Corps of Engineers reports plans for easier permitting

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

The Mobile District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is proposing a simplified process for obtaining permits for certain structures, excavation and fill activities through the Mississippi Bureau of Marine Resources.

The Corps announced Friday through a public notice that it proposes to issue a Mississippi Coastal Zone Regional Permit for certain activities within BMR's jurisdiction to non-federal applicants, with the permit to be administered by BMR.

"This permit," the notice states, "will eliminate duplication of efforts between federal and state permitting authorities and will simplify the permit process for the general public since both agencies use essentially the same public interest review in making permit decisions."

"The monetary, manpower and time benefits realized... will benefit both the general public and the environment."

According to Dr. Richard L. Leard, director of the BMR, the Mobile District of the Corps issued 18 general permits for routine work in Mississippi in December, 1982.

These permits, he said, issued under sections of the Rivers and Harbors Act of 1899 and the Clean Water Act of 1977, have generally received little or no objections from the various agencies involved or from members of the public.

Most of those permits also require an individual coastal zone permit or certification from the BMR, Leard said.

The proposed regional permit would eliminate duplication without reducing the degree of protection afforded to waters of the United States, officials from the Corps and BMR say.

The Corps will oversee the regional permit program to assure uniformity and consistency.

Generally speaking, the jurisdiction of the BMR includes those waters and adjacent wetlands below the ordinary high water mark or below the high tide line in areas subject to the ebb and flow of the tides.

Activities outside BMR's jurisdiction will continue to require authorization by the Mobile District through the current general or individual permit.

Leard said the following general permits would be administered under the new Mississippi Coastal Zone Regional Permit:

- Construction of indented boatslips;
- Maintenance dredging of existing boatslips;
- Maintenance dredging of existing canals;

- Maintenance dredging of existing docking or berthing areas; and
- Maintenance dredging of existing navigation channels.

For all these projects, Leard said, the dredging must involve less than 500 cubic yards of material.

For construction of indented boatslips, the dredging must be from below mean high tide or mean high water and the boatslip shall be no greater than the depth of the water leading to the slip.

For all other dredging projects covered by the regional permit, the depth shall be no greater than the design depths and the depth of the waters leading to the area to be maintained.

Dredged material shall not be placed in adjacent waters or wetlands and must be deposited in a confined upland area in such a manner that the sediment will not re-enter the waterway or interfere with natural drainage.

For existing canals, all work must be performed within that portion of the canal fronting the applicant's property, Leard said.

And for existing docking or berthing areas and navigation channels, the activity must be a single and complete project. "Piecemeal dredging" activities are specifically excluded from the authorization.

Also to be administered under the regional permit are general permits for:

- Construction or maintenance of piers, wharfs and their appurtenant stairways and walkways.
- Construction or maintenance of boat shelters, gazebos, hoists and shelters.

Fueling facilities and toilets over navigable U.S. waters are specifically excluded from this authorization, Leard said.

- Construction and maintenance of boat ramps.
- Construction and maintenance of marinas.

These, Leard said, must require less than 250 cubic yards of dredged or fill material below mean high tide or ordinary high water, with dredged material to be deposited on an upland site and properly confined.

- Mooring pilings and dolphins, specifically excluding permanent mooring of houseboats.
- Permanent mooring anchors.

—Fish havens and similar fish attractor and mariculture (aquaculture) activities, to include provisions of marking according to current Coast Guard regulations.

Leard noted that structures and activities that may be hazardous to navigation or may produce adverse effects on the water bodies cannot be authorized under the regional permit, and authorizations will not be issued for activities in state or national wild and scenic streams or rivers.

Applicants must submit satisfactory plans and obtain all state and local permits before the work can be authorized, he said.

The regional permit will be valid for a five-year period unless suspended or revoked.

If the activity is not completed within five years, the authorization shall expire automatically unless it is specifically extended.

Authorized representatives of the BMR or the Corps' District Engineer shall be allowed to make periodic inspections to assure the activities being performed are in accordance with the terms and conditions of the permit.

According to the public notice, a preliminary review of the regional permit indicates that an environmental impact statement will not be required.

But, the notice states, the possibility exists that the proposed work may damage or destroy presently unknown archeological, scientific, prehistorical or historical sites or data, and copies of the notice are being sent to the State Historic Preservation Officer and the National Park Service.

Responses to the proposal or requests for a public hearing on the matter should be made in writing and mailed by Sept. 10 to Col. Patrick J. Kelley, District Engineer, U.S. Corps of Engineers, Mobile District, P.O. Box 2288, Mobile, Ala. 36626.

Replies may give any comments on the proposal, including suggested changes or additions to the permit conditions or reasons why the permit should not be issued.

Leard said BMR officials have been working with Corps officials for some time to develop this one-stop permit in such a way that the Corps would not be violating their regulations in any way.

Under the new proposal, he said, individuals with minor projects could get a permit within a couple of days.

"I think it will be a real plus for people who are conducting these minor waterfront or water-related activities."

If no problems surface during the public notice process, Leard said, the new system should be operational in September.

"I cannot envision any negative reactions," he said.

"This is one of the few times you see a reduction of bureaucracy."

The six-week camp, attended by cadets normally between their third and fourth year of college, includes instruction in communications, management and survival training.

Successful completion of the advanced camp and graduation from college results in a commission as a second lieutenant in either the U.S. Army, Army Reserve or National Guard for the cadet.

Didier is a ROTC cadet and a student at Pembroke State College, S.C.

His wife, Angeletta, is the daughter of Bobby H. and Francis of Rural Route 6, Lumberton, N.C.

ETV Brief

WASTING MONEY

The "Farmweek" team will take an intensive look at ways money is wasted on Mississippi farms at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 20, on Mississippi ETV. With the aid of computers and a team of researchers, the program will point out the costs of certain agricultural practices commonly used on Mississippi farms and show how farmers can estimate the cost of these practices on their own farms to help them decide whether to continue them. The computer will also demonstrate that using tractors with the correct horsepower for various jobs can save farmers thousands of dollars on repair bills.

ETV Brief

ETV DOCUMENTARY
"The Pursuit of Happiness," a new video documentary following the efforts of six individuals to find happiness in their lives, can be seen at 3 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 19, on Mississippi ETV.

Shot in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, the program focuses on the following Americans: Molly Rush, mother of six, committed antinuclear activist; Molly's husband Bill, who is deeply shaken by his wife's acts of civil disobedience and struggling to understand and share in her political passion (it is Molly's two-to-five-year jail sentence for hammering the nose cones of two nuclear devices at a General Electric Plant with a group called the Ploughshares 8 which takes viewers to Western State Penitentiary and the documentary's other characters); the warden, George Petsok, whose life has been devoted to abiding by the letter of the law and achieving promotion within the prison system; his wife Ida May, who sets out in middle age to become a writer; and two prison inmates: Walter Henderson, a man who has spent most of his life behind bars, and Ron Grimm, a recently incarcerated man, both of whom pass their days hoping to change the jail's commutation system.

Bailey, Cody to attend juvenile justice confab

Hancock County Youth Service counselors Brenda Bailey and Esdon Cody will be among an estimated 250 youth court judges and prosecutors, youth service counselors, law enforcement officers who work with juvenile offenders and others concerned with juvenile justice who are expected to attend a Juvenile Justice Seminar Aug. 12-13 at Jackson's Ramada Inn Coliseum.

Sponsored by the Governor's Office of Criminal Justice Planning and Mississippi Judicial College, the seminar will focus upon plugging loopholes in the juvenile justice system.

Dr. Charles King, president of the Urban Crisis Center, Atlanta, will speak and conduct workshops on working with minority and poor youths.

Robert Brown, director of the Center for Community Change, Washington, D.C., and Dr. R. Laurence Coates of the Center will conduct workshops on community involvement in delinquency prevention.

Juvenile Judge James Farris, Beaumont, Tex., a widely known authority on juvenile justice, will speak on the role of humor in juvenile justice.

Ashton Brisolara, executive director of the Community Alcohol and Drug Association, New Orleans, will speak on identifying and working with alcohol and drug users.

Dr. James Chaney, psychologist, Jonesboro, Ark., will speak on advancing behavior modification, and Dr. Wood Rust, chairman of the Department of Child Psychiatry, University of Mississippi Medical Center, Jackson, will speak on recognizing abuse and neglect.

Dr. Charles Marx, executive assistant to the governor, will speak on staff liabilities in working with juveniles.

Various local authorities on juvenile justice will also be on the program, according to Herbert Terry, director of the Juvenile Justice Division, Governor's Office of Criminal Justice Planning.

"For many years, we have been plagued with inconsistencies and loopholes in the juvenile justice system," Terry said. "This seminar should help us to plug some of the loopholes, be more consistent in dealing with juvenile offenders and, above all, be more effective in preventing juvenile delinquency and rehabilitating juvenile offenders."

"We in the juvenile justice profession want to make Mississippi safer through curtailing juvenile crime," he said, "and to do everything possible to see that the potential of our state's young people is not wasted in crime."

Further information on the seminar may be obtained from Terry by calling 354-6041.

Bay Babe Ruth team bounced in regionals

Bay St. Louis, the Mississippi state champion, was eliminated in Staunton, Va. by eventual titlist Florida 11-4 Tuesday in the Babe Ruth 14-15 year-old Southeastern Regional Tournament.

Bay St. Louis, which opened the tournament with a 15-7 bombardment of South Alabama, had stayed alive earlier in the tournament, sweeping past host Staunton 11-4 and Georgia 5-4 on Sunday.

They followed that with a 12-11 victory over Eastern North Carolina Monday, a triumph punctuated by Monty Strong's game-winning double.

Florida, playing out of the loser's bracket, came back to sweep a doubleheader Thursday from previously undefeated Western North Carolina.

The 8-6 and 7-1 victories gave Florida the Southeastern Babe Ruth Tournament title.

DECA officer attends meet

Theresa Ladner of Bay St. Louis, a student at Pearl River Junior College in Poplarville, met with 14 other officers at national DECA headquarters in Reston, Va. recently for a week of leadership training.

The officers, elected at a Career Development Conference in Kansas City in May, will assume their duties following a week of team-building seminars and leadership workshops.

Ladner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ladner of Bay St. Louis.

A national DECA officer for the Delta Epsilon Chi division works as a member of a team of four youth leaders in establishing common goals and objectives, and acts as a liaison between national DECA and the student membership.

The officer also must act as the voice of DECA to those not familiar with the organization.

An officer's term begins at the end of the conference at which he or she was elected and concludes at the end of the next year's conference.

Election to office must be made by majority vote of the voting delegates of each division.

DECA is the only national student organization operating through the nation's schools to attract young people to careers in marketing, merchandising and management.

Its purposes are to develop a respect for education with will contribute to occupational competence and to promote understanding and appreciation for the responsibilities of citizenship in our free, competitive enterprise system.

In addition to electing national officers, the purpose of the National DECA Development Conference is to provide worthwhile activities to assist students in career development as they prepare to be marketing and distribution leaders of tomorrow.

There are some 200 activities throughout the conference, all planned and designed for this development. Many of the sessions are prepared and conducted by the national officers of DECA, who are assisted by outstanding student leaders from DECA's state associations.

These officers will travel and represent national DECA during the next year, attending state and regional conferences throughout the country.

FAMILY & FRIENDS

Macedonia Missionary Baptist Church on Morris Street, Waveland, celebrates Family And Friends Day with services at 11 a.m. Sunday, Aug. 12.

Area's first telephone exchange opened 85 years ago with 47 numbers

August marks the 85th anniversary of the telephone in the Bay St. Louis and Waveland area.

"The original exchange was opened on Aug. 19, 1899 with 47 new customers," said Don Roberts, district manager for South Central Bell.

Then on May 19, 1957, the 2,500 customers in the Bay St. Louis-Waveland area heard "number please" for the last time and began dialing their own calls when the old manual system was converted to a dial system.

As the exchange continued to grow, technological advancements brought additional conveniences to area residents and businesses.

"On Aug. 12, 1962, Bay St. Louis customers received a service that greatly simplified their long distance calling," said Roberts.

"Prior to this date, all long distance calls had to be placed by an operator. But with the new service, zero-plus dialing, customers could, for the first time, dial their own long distance calls, with an operator coming in only briefly to request the caller's number," continued Roberts.

In October of 1977, three new services were introduced to Bay St. Louis customers. First, simplification of their long distance service was carried one step further with the introduction of automatic number identification. This ended the necessity of an operator interrupting a call to request the caller's number. The ease of TouchTone, or push-button, dialing also became available in October. This made calling faster and more efficient for Bay St. Louis customers than with the old rotary method.

"The latest system in communications technology was also installed in the Bay St. Louis central office in October 1977," said Roberts.

"The Electronic Switching System (ESS) made features available to customers that helped them meet their individual communications needs."

AGRICULTURE MUSEUM CHURCH—The Mississippi Agriculture and Forestry Museum in Jackson will be the final home for the Epiphany Episcopal Church of Hernando, Mississippi. The church was built in 1840 and is expected to be rebuilt at the museum by September.

Joyner named outstanding tree farmer

Albert M. Joyner of Hancock County has been selected Mississippi's Outstanding District Tree Farmer for Southeast District by the Tree Farm Committee of Mississippi Forestry Association, Inc., which administers the program.

Joyner's management of his ten-year-old Farm stresses multiple use, combined full production with concern for wildlife. Extensive clean-up was done immediately after Camille.

Joyner is a retired driver for Gordon Truck Lines. Though he lives in New Orleans, he frequently walks through his property and schedules trips with Paul Watts, county forester.

Other district winners are:

East Central, Tom Coward, Morristown. Coward is a retired school administrator who operates a 140-acre farm on land acquired in 1946. His son is building an estate for his heirs. He does all work except harvesting, marking thinnings and supervises operations. Paul Tadlock, county forester, said that Coward has encouraged interest in better management by hosting forestry field days.

South Central, D.W. Fortenberry, Vidalia. Retired from the Soil Conservation Service but still carrying out its duties, Fortenberry holds frequent management demonstrations on his farm. His 550 acres have been under a written forest management plan since 1945. Jack Rauenhorst, district chairman of the Tree Farm Committee, commends Fortenberry's support of proper land use such as converting marginal land to timber production.

Northwest, Clyde A. Hatchell, Columbia. With a tree farm of 2,700 acres, Hatchell has one of the last large tracts of old growth pine and hardwood stands in Lawrence County. He is a 25-year-old and building a stand for the future by actively managing. Numerous forestry field days have been hosted by Hatchell. His practices include permanent fire, beetle salvage prevention and insect control, according to Allen Allen, county forester. Hatchell won Mississippi Wildlife Federation's award for Forest Conservationist of the Year in 1980.

West Central, Henry Bridgforth, Vidalia. Bridgforth's 479-acre tree farm has been certified for 25 years and exemplifies all recommended forestry practices, said George Byrd, county forester. Multiple use stressed in addition to timber growth includes recreation, watershed and wildlife habitat. Yazoo County's first planting of pulpwood by mechanical planter took place on Bridgforth's Tree Farm. He is a member of the Forestry Advisory committee of the county and received the Governor's Award for Outstanding Forestry from the National Wildlife Federation.

Northwest, E.G. "Ridge" Thomason, Grenada County. Certified since 1968, Thomason's 315-acre tree farm is on land his family has owned since 1909. Brant Godbold, county forester, says he has shown this tree farm many times as an example of proper management. In addition to practicing, Thomason constantly preaches good forestry by writing newspaper articles and promoting interest with personal contacts, said Godbold.

Northwest, James C. Green Jr., Tupelo. A third generation tree farmer, Green manages a 600-acre Tree Farm that was started in the '40's as 250 acres of worn-out cotton land, according to Robbie Howell, county forester. His property was the site of the district Forestry Field Day in 1980 and has been

The pines reaching up out of the smaller plants used in the beds call attention to the architecture of the house. Wagner festival to be aired on Mississippi Public Radio

Seven of Wagner's most important works including "Der Fliegende Holländer" (The Flying Dutchman), "Parsifal," "Die Meistersinger von Nürnberg," and the four opera cycle "Der Ring des Nibelungen" will be featured on Mississippi Public Radio Aug. 18-Sept. 29.

The distinguished music critic for The New Yorker magazine, Andrew Porter, is the commentator for the 1984 Bayreuth Festival from the Festspielhaus in West Germany.

Porter has translated many major operas into English, but is particularly well known for his translation of Wagner's complete Ring Cycle.

An added plus is the place of production. Of the Festspielhaus Porter observes, "Nothing can match the experience of hearing these operas in the original hall Wagner conceived and designed as the ideal setting for his musical ideas. Since 1876, when the first Bayreuth Festival was held under the direction of Wagner himself, this now-annual event has striven for operatic perfection."

The theater, built of brick and wood, houses the audience on long curving rows of plain, wooden seats which bank up steeply. The singers do not have to strain to be heard above the orchestra. The orchestra pit, stretching deep beneath the stage and hidden by curved "lids" from the spectators, is partially responsible for the unique "Bayreuth sound" recognizable by Wagner aficionados.

When Wagner designed the Festspielhaus he planned it around the orchestra pit, burying the pit under the stage and covering the opening with a black curved wooden shield that functions to throw sound away from the audience.

As Wagner explained, "The first essential I felt was that the vast musical machine, namely the orchestra, should be hidden. This primary consideration necessitated a complete rearrangement of the auditorium."

There is no orchestra that can be seen between the audience and the singers, and vocal music is easily heard over the orchestral sound which as been described as being soft and diffused.

There are two festivals under the direction of Wagner. Attending the first festival in 1876 were such guests of distinction as Kaiser Wilhelm I of Germany, King Ludwig III of Bavaria, Tchaikovsky and Nietzsche.

After Wagner's death, the responsibility for continuing the festivals as assumed by his widow, his son, his son's widow, and then—in 1951, when Bayreuth reopened after some troubled postwar years—to his grandsons, who established Bayreuth as an annual theater festival with the quality and import to attract serious music lovers from around the world.

The Ring Cycle, comprising four operas, "Das Rheingold," "Die Walkure," "Siegfried," and "Götterdämmerung," crowns the festival. Regarded as one of the most significant achievements in musical history, the masterpiece was conceived and written over a 26-year period, combining all of Wagner's innovations in orchestration, production techniques and dramatic convention. It is an all English production under the direction of Sir Georg Solti (pronounced Shol'tee).

In the "Ring," Wagner combined elements of Nordic mythology and German medieval poetry to create what he considered a myth for modern man. The title is derived from the ring made from the Rhine gold stolen at the price of love. The Ring, powerful enough to conquer the world, is passed from dwarfs to giants, gods, and men before it is returned to the Rhine daughters.

William Fulton, fine arts producer for Public Radio in Mississippi says emphatically, "Having been a Wagnerite for many years, I am extremely excited about these performances for Mississippians."

The Festival can be heard on 90.3 FM, Biloxi.

The Festival can be heard on PRM on these dates:

—Aug. 18, 1 p.m., "Der Fliegende Holländer."

—Aug. 25, 11:30 a.m., "Parsifal."

—Sept. 1, 11 a.m., "Die Meistersingers."

—Sept. 8, 1 p.m., "Das Rheingold."

—Sept. 15, noon, "Die Walkure."

—Sept. 22, noon, "Siegfried."

—Sept. 29, 11:30 a.m., "Götterdämmerung."

ETV Brief

DRUMS, BUGLES, CHEERS

Competition is the name of the game Mississippi ETV Saturday evening, Aug. 18.

"The 1984 National High School Cheerleading Championships" will begin at 7:30, followed at 8 by "The 1984 Drum Corps International World Championships."

This year the DCI championships will be broadcast live at 8 in a two-hour program from Grant Field in Atlanta.

The program will feature the last five corps in competition and the announcement of scores.

The annual summer drum and bugle corps activity is made up of young men and women under 21 years of age who dedicate their entire summer to marching and music.

Among the 10 finalist cheerleading teams featured at 7:30 is the squad from Southaven High School in Southaven.

The squads are judged on projections, skills including gymnastics, group technique and appeal and overall effect. Five hundred squads representing 30 states participated in events throughout the year that led to regional tournaments.

The competition was taped at Seaworld in Orlando, Fla., last March.

ETV Brief

LUCIANO LIVE
Mississippi ETV will broadcast Luciano Pavarotti's concert at Madison Square Garden live at 1 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 16.

CHILEAN EXILES
In the early morning of Feb. 1974, the Chilean secret police stormed the house of a family and a terrified family fled the father and mother son off to prison.

Accused of subversive activities, the two were tortured and jailed without trial for 22 months.

Finally, in 1976, Alberto and his son Jorge—along with thousands of other political prisoners of the Pinochet regime—were given an option: continued imprisonment or forced exile from their homeland.

Choosing the latter, the entire Sepulveda family was packed on a plane and re-born in San Jose, Calif. "Exiles," airing at 9 p.m. Friday, Aug. 17, on ETV, traces a turbulent decade in the life of these Chileans, a working class family caught up in the political violence of the early 70s, expelled from their country, and forced by circumstances to make a new life in a strange new land.

Friendship Oak DAR represented at Plains

By Joe Pilet
Chapter Publicist
"Don't Pollute! Give a Hoot!"
The 195 members in attendance at the Coastal Plains District Workshop of the Mississippi State Society of NS Daughters of the American Revolution found complimentary packages with this message beside their luncheon plates on Wednesday when the daughters assembled at the Coca Cola Plant in Hattiesburg for three sessions designed to instruct regents, officers and committee chairmen whose objectives are historic preservation, promotion of education and patriotic endeavor.

Representing the Friendship Oak Chapter were Mrs. Philip Davenport of Bay St. Louis, chapter regent; Mrs. James Thomas of Long Beach, vice regent; Mrs. William J. Gemmel of Diamondhead, treasurer; Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet of Bay St. Louis, recording secretary; Mrs. Larry R. Lisenbee, chaplain; Mrs. James E. Young, librarian; and Mrs. Hazel Erhard, good citizen chairman, all of Long Beach.

The well-organized workshop was divided into three 45-minute sessions conducted by state officers including librarian, registrar, treasurer, organizing secretary, chaplain, recording secretary, historian and curator.

They were assisted by several chairpersons who serve at local levels. In addition to the three meeting rooms were areas for sales tables, tour information, national defense materials, the country store and DAR cookbooks.

Popular items included homemade pickles and preserves, folk art, needle crafts, stationery, jewelry and books.

Mrs. William E. O'Hare, state regent, presided at the speaker's table during the luncheon that followed the workshop and introduced dignitaries.

A delicate arrangement of several varieties of chrysanthemums was used on that table. Red carnation arrangements were also used at vantage points.

The National Society, founded in 1890 and incorporated by an Act of U.S. Congress in 1896, now has 211,342 members with 3,155 chapters representing all 50 states, the District of Columbia, England, France, Mexico and Canada.

THIRD BIRTHDAY—Kevin Estrade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mel Estrade of Bay St. Louis, celebrated his third birthday on August 3. The home of his parents was the setting for his Shirt Tales theme party, which was attended by family, friends and nursery school playmates. Kevin is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Ryan of Bay St. Louis and Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Estrade of Metairie, La.

Modern living involves toxins

By Sarah Fountain
Home Furnishings
Specialist

Extension Service

One of the prices of modern living is exposure to hundreds of potentially harmful or toxic substances, even at home.

These substances may or may not be present in a home, but in any case, there are substances about which people should be aware. The following are descriptions of some toxic substances and their dangers:

—Lead. People who live in older apartments or homes that have been painted many times should be aware that older paint may contain excessive amounts of lead. Care should be taken that small children do not chew or swallow old paint chips since lead poisoning can result.

This type of poisoning causes anemia and swelling of the brain tissue. The condition can lead to brain damage and infertility in adults.

The paint industry agreed to limit the amount of lead in paint in 1955. The limit is one percent or less. Any paint manufactured and applied before 1955, however, can contain up to 40 percent lead.

Chewing on pencils also is dangerous since pencil lacquer has a high concentration of lead. Pencil "lead" to the contrary is made of clay and graphite and does not contain lead.

Lead in automobile emissions remains a serious problem and federal agencies continue to push for discontinuance of the use of lead (tetraethyl lead) in gasoline. Lead is carried into the atmosphere by vehicular exhaust.

Another final caution about lead is that people should never drink soda or other high-acid drinks from an unglazed, clay cup or container. Death can result because the acid in solution can dissolve the lead out of the clay and into the drink. When the drink is swallowed, such a large amount in a short time can be fatal.

—Mercury. Some thermometers, barometers, batteries and all fluorescent lamps contain mercury. Contact with droplets of this fascinating, silvery fluid should be avoided. Mercury vapor is invisible, odorless and extremely toxic.

Bacteria in the body converts metallic mercury vapor to the organic compound methyl mercury. More than 90 percent of this compound is permanently retained in the body, making mercury poisoning cumulative. The poison can cause irreparable cell damage, especially to the nerve cells in the brain's balance, visual and hearing centers.

Food dangers—When there is doubt about the wholesomeness of any food, throw it out. A tuna fish can with a bulge on the side, a funny smell to a food both are signals to dispose of the food. The danger comes from a botulism toxin, the most dangerous poison known and perhaps the greatest danger around the home.

Ole Miss receives $205,000 for Southern Encyclopedia

One-third of the tractors in the South have air conditioning...

John Pemberton, an Atlanta pharmacist, concocted Coca-Cola in 1886, primarily as a cure for hangovers...

In the 19th century South, the knife was the main eating utensil and coffee was as frequently sipped from the saucer as from the cup...

Southern poultry-raisers dominate national chicken production, accounting for 61 percent of the total output...

"Have you ever thought about coming up with a Southern version of 'Trivial Pursuit'?" someone recently asked Dr. Charles Wilson.

"We might just do that," joked Wilson, assistant professor of history at The University of Mississippi and editor of a project to produce the first comprehensive reference book on the culture of the South.

Co-editing the Encyclopedia of Southern Culture is Dr. William Ferris, director of the University's Center for the Study of Southern Culture, where Wilson is a staff member.

The encyclopedia project was recently awarded a $145,000 grant by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

This year the project also received grants of $50,000 from the Ford Foundation and $10,000 from the Atlantic-Richfield Foundation.

The reference book is set to be published by the University of North Carolina Press in 1986. Its 1,200 pages will cover every aspect of the South—the mythology as well as the reality of one of America's most distinctive regions.

As the first of its kind, the encyclopedia is expected to be a valuable resource for scholars and a useful addition to home libraries.

It will have 24 broad categories, with topics such as architecture, art, music, religion, politics, industry and commerce and agriculture.

An essay of 15 to 25 pages will give an overview of each category, with five- to seven-page articles discussing various themes. Individual entries will be one to two pages in length.

The work will also include about 200 photos, maps, charts and graphs.

Since 1981 Wilson and other staff members at the center have been gleaned information from state and local archives, museums, libraries and courthouses.

Contributions from scholars everywhere will round out the reference work.

Some information has been easy to gather. Some has not.

"For categories like literature and music there's been a great deal of scholarly and popular work done," Wilson said.

"In other areas, like ethnic minorities, it's been more difficult." That is a relatively new field in Southern studies, he said, and research is scanty.

"In some ways Mississippi and other parts of the South did not seem hospitable regions to foreigners," Wilson said.

"There has always been a lot of conformity in the South which discouraged acceptance of ethnic minorities."

"Immigrants from China, Syria and Lebanon did settle in Mississippi, Wilson said. Their numbers were small, because cheap black labor meant few jobs.

"By the way," Wilson said, "do you know how many rabbis there are in Mississippi?"

"Four," he said, answering his own question.

Sounds like a great question for "Trivial Pursuits," Southern style.

Winston Churchill's memory was so fine that he could repeat verbatim a lecture or a whole Shakespearean play.

Perk Band opening fall practice today

Members of the Gulf Coast Junior College marching band are due to arrive on Perkinston campus Sunday, Aug. 12 for a pre-school workshop.

"This is a required workshop for all band members," said director Virgel Fulcher. "The schedule is rigorous, so the members will have to come prepared to work hard."

He said the guard, drum line and dance team have already been hard at work. We plan to be the best junior college band in the state."

Fulcher said students who have previous band experience and wish to play in the "Band of Gold" but have not yet sent in an application, should contact him at Perkinston campus, 928-5211, extension 352.

"A man ought to read just as inclination leads him, for what he reads as a task will do him little good." Samuel Johnson

USM announces enrollment increases

Summer enrollment at the University of Southern Mississippi has again set records with a .7 percent increase over last year.

Enrollment for the 1983-84 summer term totaled 5,841 compared to last year's total of 5,796.

"We have had a slight increase over last year's registration," said Danny Montgomery, USM registrar.

"But in the face of declining enrollments in the state and across the country, we are pleased with the increase and are optimistic about the fall enrollments."

USM has had an increase in its enrollment for the past 12 years.

In 1983 USM became the largest university in the state. However, projected declines in university student populations remain a concern to USM officials.

"Certain studies have projected that in the year 1992 we will have some 12 percent fewer high school graduates in Mississippi," said Gene Saucier, dean of Special Academic Services at USM.

"Our location and academic programs have kept us competitive with our sister institutions in the state and other universities in the region. All we can do at this point is work as hard as we can do to attract students to our campus."

Mini-Quarter, a USM summer orientation program for high school and transfer students, has been an indicator of fall enrollments for some years.

According to Becky Askew, director of the Office of High School and Junior College Relations, Mini-Quarter reservations are running parallel to last summer's attendance figures.

USM Foundation contributions head for million dollar mark

Contributions to the University of Southern Mississippi Foundation have passed the $600,000 mark at this point in the year. Gifts to the foundation had reached a little more than $478,000 at the same time last year.

The foundation receives gifts for all areas of the university—academics, activities, athletics and university development, Powell Ogletree, director of Alumni Affairs said.

Athletic support clubs have had good support so far in 1984 and are running ahead of last year.

A special emphasis is currently being placed on support of the new Toward Distinction program launched at homecoming in 1983. Funds from this program are for academic enhancement.

Toward Distinction levels denote significant points about the university. The 1910 Club marks the founding of the school in 1910 and covers contributions of $19.10 through $99.

The Southern Circle recognizes a favorite name for the school and includes Toward Distinction contributions of $100-$499.

The College Hall Society recognizes the original academic structure on the campus with members giving $500-$999 annually to the program. The USM Associates are special friends of the University contributing more than $1,000 toward the academic enhancement program annually.

Charter membership in all levels of the program is open through the end of the 1984 year. All charter members will be recognized appropriately at that time.

Inquiries about the USM Foundation, or gifts to the Foundation, should be directed to: USM Foundation, Southern Station Box 5013, Hattiesburg, MS 39406 or call (601) 266-5013.

LeRoy Lizana, superintendent of Pass Christian Municipal Separate School District, announced that new students enrolling in grades K-4 may report for registration at the DeLisle Elementary of Pass Christian Elementary Schools on any day, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

New students in grades 5-12 should report to Pass Christian Middle or High Schools during the same hours.

Lizana noted that parents or guardians must accompany the students to the schools for registration. All students being presented for enrollment must have an official certified birth certificate bearing a state file number.

Kindergarten enrollees must be five before Sept. 1, 1984.

In addition to the birth certificate, all students must have a health certificate that was issued by the county health department or a physician. The health certificate will certify that the child is free of communicable diseases.

Those students who have a blue card immunization record on file in the school office will not be issued new cards by the health department for the 1984-85 school term. Parents are urged to check the school offices prior to the opening to ascertain if their child's record is on file.

The first day for the 1984-85 school term will be Monday, Aug. 20.

Lizana indicated that the regular class schedules will be observed on that day. All district cafeterias will be operating and the school buses will operate to transport all students who live one mile or more from the attendance center where enrolled.

Parents desiring additional information relative to the opening of school should contact the school office. All administrative personnel are on duty.

The 1984-85 school calendar for the Pass Christian schools begins on Aug. 20 and ends on May 21.

The calendar has 176 teaching days. The school year is divided into four academic nine week terms.

Semester examinations are scheduled for Dec. 19, 20, 21, and final examinations are scheduled for May 17, 20, 21. The last working day for teachers is May 22.

The school district will observe the following holiday schedule: Sept. 3, Labor Day; Nov. 22-23, Thanksgiving; Dec. 24-31, Christmas; Jan. 1-4, New Year; Feb. 18 and 19, Mardi Gras; April 1-4, Spring Holidays; and April 5, Good Friday.

Classes will be dismissed at 12:30 p.m. on Nov. 21 for Thanksgiving and Dec. 21 for Christmas holidays.

High school graduation is scheduled for Friday, May 17.

The school district has scheduled eight district-wide inservice days for teachers throughout the school year. There will be an early dismissal for students on inservice workshop days.

Classes are scheduled to be dismissed at 12:30 p.m. at Pass Christian Elementary and DeLisle Elementary; 12:45 p.m. at Pass Middle School and approximately 1 p.m. at Pass Christian High School on the following dates during the 1984-85 school term: Aug. 20, 21, 22, 23, 24; and Sept. 21.

USM registration

Registration for the fall semester at the University of Southern Mississippi has been set for Aug. 26-28, in the Reed Green Coliseum.

Dormitories will open Saturday, Aug. 25, for students with definite room assignments. On Aug. 26, dormitories will open for all students and registration by appointment will be held from 1-6:30 p.m.

Registration will continue from 8 a.m. until 6:30 p.m. on Aug. 27-28.

USM officials have stated that students who do not have proof of measles and rubella vaccinations will not be allowed to register. Vaccination validation forms are available at State Health Department offices and may be completed by health department officials or by private physicians.

The River begins 75th anniversary

Pearl River College, Mississippi's pioneer junior college, will open its doors for the 75th time Aug. 21 when freshman and transfer students report to the PRC Coliseum for a required orientation session.

While new students are getting instructions on how to register for the school year, PRC sophomores will be registering by appointment beginning at 9 a.m. in the Academic Building. Sophomore registration will continue until 1 p.m.

This year no testing session is required for a freshman attending Pearl River College. However, students are required to have an ACT score on file. ACT scores will determine which English, social studies and math classes students will enter.

Freshman, transfer and former students will begin registering at 1 p.m. Aug. 21 and will continue according to a published alphabetical listing Aug. 22 and 23.

"Registration is a very important aspect of getting off to a good school year," said Dr. Willis Lott, PRC director of admissions.

"That's why it's necessary we have a registration schedule to ensure an orderly and fair registration system."

Students may register after their scheduled time, but not prior to the scheduled time.

"We realize many of our students work or commute with other students, but we will not be able to accommodate students who wish to register early," Lott said.

Registration will close at 2 p.m. Thursday, Aug. 23. Late registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. Friday, Aug. 24.

Classes will begin Friday, Aug. 24 at 8:15 a.m. Students may change their schedule through Thursday, Aug. 30.

Coast Mental Health Center to provide services to Hancock School District

THE SEA COAST ECHO—SUNDAY, AUGUST 12, 1984-11

Dr. G. Kinsey Stewart, executive director of Gulf Coast Mental Health Center, and Terry Randolph, superintendent of the Hancock County School District, announced the signing of an agreement through which professionals from GCMHC will provide psychotherapeutic services to school children who are diagnosed as having emotional problems.

The Mental Health Center will provide program recommendations for those students currently identified as emotionally disturbed, as well as consultation services on referrals for those with possible emotional problems.

In addition to providing direct services to schools, Gulf Coast Mental Health Center offers a full range of clinical services to persons of all ages. Services include marital and family counseling, substance abuse treatment, and services to children with learning problems.

Offices are located in Gulfport, Bay St. Louis and Picayune. For more information about mental health services, call 467-0183 or 863-1132.

Community education center receives foundation grant

For the tenth consecutive year the Center for Community Education at the University of Southern Mississippi has received a grant from the Mott Foundation.

This year's grant of $19,000 will be used primarily to allow center personnel to work with area school districts starting or expanding community education programs and to provide workshops and other training experiences, according to center director Dr. William Hetrick.

The center, as part of the Department of Educational Leadership and Research, is one of 50 centers across the United States, one per state, supported by the Mott Foundation.

The USM Center founded in 1975

disseminates information on CE, works with school districts in implementing programs and trains the professional personnel who administer the programs.

Over 20 school districts in the state have CE programs where the school is used late afternoon, evenings and during the summer to provide a variety of recreational, vocational, educational and social activities for people of all ages, said Hetrick.

This maximum usages of school facilities builds a broad base of community support for the schools.

The USM center has been the leader in promoting the concept in Mississippi and has worked closely with these districts, personnel from other universities, the State Department of Education and the Mississippi School Boards Association.

During the past year over 80,000 people participated in Community Education activities in Mississippi, according to Hetrick.
